Ice Extravagance

To allow the ice to run low is the worst form of ice extravagance. The ice-box becomes so heated that when the ice supply is renewed rapid melting is the result. "Milk sours, meat is unfit to eat, and vegetables become slimy and mouldy where the temperature goes above 45°," says Mrs. M. A. Wilson, the well-known writer on Pure Food and its care. So ice is lost and food is lost unless the ice compartment be regularly filled. Clean, pure Knickerbocker Ice costs but 3-5 of a cent a pound in Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn—delivered so regularly you can almost "set your clock by the driver's arrival."

SENATORS PURPOSE REDUCING ARMY PAY

Military Affairs Committee to Investigate Question of Adequate Allowance.

WOULD SAVE $25,000,000

Demand for Economy Behind Proposal to Be Effective Next Year.

INQUIRY LATE IN SUMMER

Larger Army Men Advocate Measure as Permitting Increased Personnel.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

New York Herald Bureau.

Washington, D. C., May 24.

Congress is moving toward legislation to reduce the pay of the army. A programme for a preliminary investigation of the subject is taking form and probably will be begun by the Senate Committee on Military Affairs before making appropriations for the next army bill, and it is expected to cut the pay appropriations from $25,000,000 to $40,000,000.

Those facts were obtained to-day from authoritative sources in the Senate Military Affairs Committee. It was said the investigation would not begin till late in the summer, but that when it is done the officials of the War Department from the Secretary down would be called on to furnish all necessary data looking to pay reductions.

Normal Conditions Awaited.

The investigation will be deferred for two reasons: First, that pay reductions, if made, could not be effective this year, and therefore there is no need for immediate action. Second, because the problem is intimately associated with the cost of living and cannot be approached intelligently until more normal business and industrial conditions arrive.

Naturally until the investigation is held men in Congress will not speculate on the rate of pay reduction. They are practically a unit in saying, however, that the pay of enlisted men, and possibly of some grades of officers, will be cut in the next army bill.

Secretary of War Weeks is aware of the situation. When he was before the Senate Military Committee recently discussing the pending Army Appropriation bill he was asked if there were any possibility of reducing army pay.

"It has been discussed," he admitted at that time.

Chairman Wadsworth (N. Y.), of the committee, to-night said it was a matter that must be taken up in Congress, but did not indicate when.

Fair Compensation Sought.

Demands for economy are behind the proposed reductions and it was said to-day support for it may be expected from those opposed to as well as those favoring a large army. The large army men believe that by reducing appropriations they may be able to keep up the larger personnel, while the smaller army men believe in it because of the resulting decreases in Government expenditures.

"What is fair compensation?" That is the question to which an answer is to be sought. Those who favor the investigation emphasize the fact that enlisted men, in addition to the larger pay allowed them, also receive benefits they did not have when pay was lower. These include opportunities for vocational training, unlimited clothing supply instead of a clothing allowance in cash which amounts to a virtual increase in pay; free laundry, which amounts to about $2,000,000 annually; a bonus of $30 for reenlistment, although this is cut out of the present bill.

The committee is well aware of the opposition that will develop to pay reductions. Officers, especially in lower grades, have already complained that their pay is too low to support their families. The whole question is to be approached as an original problem to be solved in connection with changed conditions, commercially and industrially, growing out of the world war.

Ball for Shore Murder Suspect.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 24.—James D. DAVAN, arrested here three weeks ago in connection with the murder of Count von Pickler, said to have been a member of the German nobility, was released to-day under $1,000 bail by Prosecutor Edmund C. Gaskill, who stated that his detectives were still investigating the murder. Von Pickler was found murdered in the meadows back of the city.

Sir Edward Carson Gets Office.

LONDON, May 24.—Sir Edward Carson, who for many years has been the leader of the Ulster forces in Parliament, has been appointed Lord of Appeal in Ordinary in succession to Baron Moulton, who died in March.

MORALS AT YALE ARE 'LESS', BOAST OF CRIMSON SATIRE

Distinction Between Princeton Snobbishness and Cambridge Aloofness Also Is Drawn in "The Proletarian," Newest Publication.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

Cambridge, Mass., May 24.—Under the caption "The Harvard Creed," the newest Harvard publication, the Proletarian, has caused a stir with an article which it prints as a satire on certain settled beliefs of the student body. It follows a similar article recently published, written by H. L. Mencken of New York.

Among its allegations are "that Calvin Coolidge saved Boston; that there is a gun base under the Harvard German Museum; that the American Revolution was rather a mistake; that President Emeritus Eliot never will die and that the Supreme Experience is kissing a chorus girl."

Interesting paragraphs in the "Creed" include the following:

That T. R. is the greatest Harvard graduate.

That Radcliffe students are not as pretty as they might be.

That the food at Memorial is bad.

That Yale is less moral than Harvard.

That it is disloyal for an Irishman to revolt against Great Britain, and that it was loyal for a colonist to do likewise.

That Emerson was a Christian.

That the Lampoon is a funny paper.

That there is something wrong with Harvard spirit.

That, except when used by auctioneers and the Harvard Corporation, the red flag is sacrilegious.

That anarchy is a state of things where one can come to Harvard, having gone neither to Grotton nor St. Paul's.

That it's worth a dime to go to Boston.

That a prominent poetess smokes big black cigars.

That a jag in evening clothes is wasted if not exhibited at the Waldorf.

That S. Gompers is a disguised Bolshevik.

That John Harvard looked like his statue.

That Prof. Kittredge is the handsomest man in Middlesex county.

That there is a difference between Princeton snobbishness and Harvard aloofness.

FORD-NEWBERRY CONTEST RENEWED

Senate Committee Decides to Press Investigation of 1918 Election.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The Senate Privileges and Elections Committee decided unanimously to-day to press its investigation into the charges of Henry Ford that Senator Newberry of Michigan had obtained his election in 1918 by improper methods. The subcommittee in charge of the investigation then went into executive session.

After the executive meeting Chairman Spencer of the subcommittee announced that attorneys both for Henry Ford and for the Michigan Senator would be summoned to Washington Friday, when his committee will determine what evidence to take, the method of procedure and the scope of the inquiry.

Senator Townsend, Republican, of Michigan, appeared before the full Privileges and Elections Committee at the session which preceded the subcommittee's meeting, to urge that the investigation be confined to the scope of the evidence taken in the criminal prosecution brought against Senator Newberry by the Federal Government, which resulted in the Supreme Court's recent decision declaring unconstitutional.

Plattsburg Recruiting Begins.

Headquarters for civilian training camp enlistment were opened yesterday at 1439 Broadway, and a recruiting drive was begun. The Fort Hancock band will play afternoons and evenings at the Broadway Theatre Building, where the headquarters are located, and in Columbus Circle. The army will conduct the training camp at Plattsburg, N. Y., for thirty days, beginning August 7.
